

Array of Needs

Announcer:

This year MERIL celebrates 20 years of providing smiles. Listen as we talk to DeLinda Kelly, Director of Communications and Transition for MERIL through an interpreter's voice as she shares with us about the services provided by MERIL. DeLinda, what's a typical client need?

DeLinda:

I would say needing visual alerts, fire alarms or doorbell flashers, flashers for their alarm clocks so they can get up in the morning and that's for individuals with hearing loss...If they have a vision loss it might be related to Braille equipment so they're able to read their email and bills and that sort of thing, but there's certainly an array of needs within sensory disabilities.

We also have an equipment room where we can demo a lot of the equipment for individuals with low vision.
